● AHEAD OF MPC MEET

Short-term rates at near 3-year high

FE BUREAU
Mumbai, June 2

AHEAD OF THE Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meet next week, short-term yields are spiking. On Wednesday, the yield on the one-year T-bill hit 6.08% at the Reserve Bank of India's (RBI) auction. These are the highest levels since July 2019 and at nearly three-year highs.

Yields at the shorter end of the curve had risen in April after the RBI introduced the Standing Deposit Facility (SDF), as the effective floor of the LAF corridor. At 3.75%, the SDF was 40 bps higher than the reverse repo rate of 3.35%, in a move considered a stealth rate hike.

Meanwhile, as bond markets brace themselves for another 40 bps hike in the repo rate, the yield on the benchmark inchped up to 7.433 on Thursday, up 2 bps. The recent high was 7.47% on May 9, after the MPC opted to hike the repo by 40 bps on May 2. Five-year paper also lost some value as the yield went up by 2 bps to 7.23%.

It has been evident since early May that the MPC will choose to front-load the rate hikes rather than pace itself. The first milestone is 5.15% which is where the repo was in February 2020, before the pandemic. The consensus

RISING BILL

■ Yields at the shorter end of the curve had risen in April after the RBI introduced the SDF, as the effective floor of the LAF corridor

■ At 3.75%, the SDF was 40 bps higher than the reverse repo rate of 3.35%, in a move considered a stealth rate hike

■ While reviewing monetary policy in April, RBI said it was prioritising inflation concerns over growth believes there will be a 40 bps hiked in June followed by another raise of 35 bps in August. Thereafter, the pace of the hikes would depend on inflation forecasts; while some economists are looking at a terminal repo of 5.5-5.75%, though there are some who believe it could cross 6%.

"Given the government's large borrowing programme, it is unlikely the central bank would be looking at a terminal repo rate of more than 5.5%," the treasurer of large bank said.

RBI governor Shaktikanta Das confirmed in a recent interview there would be more rate hikes at the next few meetings; it was 'no brainer', he said. However, it is unlikely the narrative from the central bank would be unduly hawkish, say dealers, as that would sour the sentiment.

While reviewing monetary policy in April, the central bank said it was prioritising inflation concerns over growth and had upped the inflation forecast by 120 bps to 5.7%. However, that is likely to be pushed up further and the revised forecasts for the current fiscal will be keenly watched. A sharper-than-expected rise in the forecast will send yields shooting up. The markets are not expecting any OMOs (Open market Operations) immediately. The central bank, they feel, would not want to appear over-concerned. Moreover, they point out the RBI would want to wait for a few months to take stock of geopolitical events and global crude oil prices.

Meanwhile, companies are borrowing heavily in the corporate bond market with a view to lock into lower interest rates. Bloomberg reported approximately ₹8,330 crore has been mopped up in the last three days and that another ₹8,590 crore is likely to be raised before the week is over.

IN THE NEWS

JAY KOTAK, CO-HEAD, 811, KOTAK MAHINDRA BANK

SHRITAMA BOSE
Mumbai, June 2

IN THE MIDDLE of the customary string of investor meets this post-pandemic season, one stood out. On the afternoon of May 26, analysts tracking the banking sector walked into Sofitel hotel at Mumbai's Bandra-Kurla Complex expecting an update on how Kotak Mahindra Bank had weathered the pandemic and war-ravaged FY22.

What they witnessed was something quite unusual in the Indian private banking space. The bank's promoter-chief executive Uday Kotak took the opportunity to introduce investors to the new co-head of its digital 811 product, Jay Kotak, who, in the words of the senior Kotak, "happens to be my son".

Jay Kotak joined the lender's consumer division three years ago as an executive assistant to group president Shanti Ekambaram, who made him co-head of 811 in January 2021, along with business head Manish Agarwal. The latter, 47, with 17 years of banking experience, was part of the 811 launch team in 2015.

Jay addressed investors right after Ekambaram, beginning his presentation with a quote from his Harvard University professor Clay Christensen on corporate innovation and disruption. His address went in Christensen's thoughts smoothly into the conception of 811 as a self-disrupting instrument for the organisation.

People who have worked with Jay Kotak say that he shares with his father a preference for keeping the spotlight focused firmly on the bank rather than on individuals. To that, one might add the moustache and the round glasses as also a studied similarity of mien and manner between father and son. He is also known to be keenly interested in all things digital.

His interests outside of work — Fantasy Premier League and the video game Age of Empires II — also happen to be from the realm of the virtual. His tweets suggest he is interested as much in Russia's geopolitical ambitions as in the consequences of Big Tech monopolies — again, a few things in common with his father. A good fit, one would think, as the leader of a product, more than half of whose user base is under 30.

Yet, people who have worked with Jay Kotak confess to being surprised by the bank's decision to introduce him to investors. In his three years of work at the bank, he remained a quiet worker, hardly ever seen as the 'young Kotak', so to speak. Some analysts, too, have been left wondering what process was followed to identify a 32-year-old MBA with less than three years of banking experience as the co-head of a division so crucial to the growth of a bank with a ₹3.69-trillion market capitalisation.

At one point in his presentation, Jay Kotak referred to Uday Kotak as "my father", a detail seen by some as a minor, yet telling slip-up. One brokerage analyst went so far as to write in his note to clients that Jay Kotak came across as a young enthusiast who has a long way to go in terms of gaining business acumen and democratic leadership skills.

Jay Kotak's initiation ceremony, however, was not exactly a bolt from the blue. The man did make the odd headline in 2021, having expressed his view on creating an ultra-low tax zone in Mumbai. He also anchored one of Observer Research Foundation's (ORF) 'Colaba Conversations', moderating a tete-a-tete with Maharashtra cabinet minister (and another famous son) Aaditya Thackeray.

For all that, though, media interactions are for now a no-go area for Jay Kotak. Even as he chooses to remain the quiet worker, his trajectory at Kotak Mahindra Bank will be closely watched. With "feet on the ground, eyes to the sky", as his Twitter bio says, the markets will hope Jay Kotak brings value for investors.

People who have worked with Jay say he shares with his father, Uday Kotak, a preference for keeping the spotlight focused firmly on the bank rather than on individuals
